SEWER LINE – BRUCE DALTON

Bruce Dalton constructed a new home in 2020. Homeowners are responsible for installing the sewer line running from the home to the main sewer line. Bruce claimed he began digging the line, but about two feet from his property line city workers intervened and completed the line. According to Bruce, he intended to run the line straight, but the city redirected it to pass through his neighbor Brett Dalton's driveway and added a clean-out on the neighbor's property. The neighboring property now has new owners. Bruce mentioned that if the neighbors encounter any issues with the clean-out, he will be held responsible and believes that a new pipe needs to be installed.

BIC BUILDING – BILL REES STATE OF UTAH

Bill Rees from the State of Utah spoke to the council about brownfields and the BIC building. The state can conduct a hazardous material survey, determine eligibility, and develop a clean-up plan for the city at no cost. The Council voted to proceed with the survey.
